the untitled image. no name. progressions of thought — processes toward the intention of movement. one memory. in silence and in sound we become explorers of time.

in the constant search for solemnity through painting and drawing, subtleties of time become unearthed from the energy of the moment. mozart plays silently over and over in synchrony to the beats of wind and water. memories of life long ago, the son of a cello prodigy, playing the same mozart tunes at age five. the moon guides as the passion and dust beat persistence through the lungs of tradition and innovation. as the silence of snow falls the cantankerous sounds of the day melt into mozart. posture tips to the moon as dark and light become solace in the wake of tomorrow.
