

Citizen

22 April - 15 July 2018

This year's gallery programme asks: What does it mean to have a voice, and what does it mean to speak? How can we question legacies of equality, history, place and power when thinking about social, cultural and physical visibility?

About the exhibition

The history of how a community treats citizen's rights directly reflects our broader society, both now and in the past. A person's ability and desire to protect basic human rights is a factor to how strong the fabric of community may be, allowing people to be free citizens capable of living life to their fullest. Looking back in time reveals our triumphs as well as our shortcomings as a society.

Tash Kahn is interested in the differences and character of each of the London Borough of Camden's voting wards and how things have changed over the years: has history left its mark or have areas changed beyond recognition? How do the inhabitants 'inhabit' the new, constantly changing space? Using these questions as starting points she has travelled to each of the borough's 18 wards, taking Polaroids, collecting 'finds' and recording local sounds.

Ros has looked back at voting districts throughout the borough, considering how they influence our identities as citizens. How does each new boundary shape identity? Ros has researched several spaces and times within the current boundaries of the borough, looking at voting trends since women have been given the right to vote. In doing so, he has marked out visual representations of the area questioning: What is boundary? What is citizenry? How does one affect the other?

The two artists bring these ideas together to collaborate in an exhibition that celebrates 100 years of the women's right to vote, focuses on aesthetics and ethics, and why people do what they do.

About the artists

Tash Kahn studied Fine Art at the University of East London in 1995. She predominantly works site-specifically, using a location's immediate surrounding area and local history as starting points. She is interested in how people relate to art, the conversations it generates and how it makes them feel.

Kahn has exhibited both nationally and internationally, with a recent collaboration at Stand4 Gallery in New York with John Ros and Karl England. The site-specific exhibition took place in Brooklyn and London, and continues to be an ongoing virtual project. Group exhibitions include: The Mechanical Reproduction of Dust (2018) Stand4 Gallery, New York; Asymmetrical Intersections (2016) SHIM, New York; DOLPH: The Directors (2015), DOLPH, London; Bread and Jam III (2015) 54 Whitbread Road, London; Skim (2015) ASC Gallery, London; Circus TM, Belmacz, London.

Citizen

In 2014, Kahn co-founded the visual-arts project DOLPH, and has helped facilitate 22 exhibitions, making partnerships with two Lambeth primary schools, UAL Wimbledon, The Royal College of Art, as well as numerous artists in the UK, New York and Berlin. DOLPH provides an alternative way for the community to engage with contemporary art, as well as being an invaluable learning and networking resource for artists. She is also a freelance editor for Penguin and Sluice Magazine.

John Ros is an artist, curator, professor, and activist. He currently lives and works in New York City and Harrisonburg, Virginia, US. He obtained an MFA from Brooklyn College, City University of New York, in 2013 and a BFA from the State University of New York at Binghamton in 2000.

Ros is an Assistant Professor of Art at James Madison University's School of Art, Design, and Art History, where he also serves as the Director and Chief Curator of the Duke Hall Gallery of Fine Art. He has taught at the City Literary Institute (London, UK), Brooklyn College (New York, NY, US), SUNY Binghamton (Binghamton, NY, US) and the National Academy of Art (New York, NY, US), and has lectured as a visiting artist at NYU: Steinhardt, London Metropolitan University, George Mason University, North Florida Community College and Jefferson Technical and Community College among others. In 2015 Ros founded studioELL, an alternative, transient and hybrid space for higher education in the studio arts, where he is currently the Director and teaches a variety of courses.

During the past 20 years, Ros has worked on more than 65 exhibitions with over 200 artists. He founded two alternative gallery ventures, pocket, (2002-2005, Binghamton, NY, US) and galleryELL, a transient, hybrid gallery, (2008-2016, New York, NY, US), and has been involved in many artist and non-profit initiatives such as; Art Director of Perspectives International (2005-2008, New York, NY, US), Board Member of Spool MFG. (2004-2005, Johnson City, NY, US), and Museum Educator at the Hillwood Art Museum (2000, Brookville, NY, US).

About Camden Vox

Taking inspiration from the Women's Suffrage movement and the centenary of the Representation of the People act, Camden VOX will celebrate and explore themes of equality, place, history and power. Camden's annual arts programme will offer free and low cost arts and cultural events for those who live, work in and visit the borough. Through celebrating Camden's unique spirit which is rebellious, creative and progressive, and working with partners and key cultural institutions in the borough, Camden VOX offers a thought provoking and engaging arts and cultural programme for 2018, featuring theatre, pop-up performance, song, spoken word, exhibitions, commissions and artist led, drop in family friendly workshops across the borough.

For more information on Camden VOX visit
www.lovecamden.org/camdenvox

Citizen

List of works

1. John Ros, Camden, London, UK, 2018, Laser print, 10/10, edition of 10
2. John Ros, Camden Wards Cutout, 2018, Laser print, 10/10, edition of 10
3. Tash Kahn, Ward Finds, 2018, Found objects
- 4-21. Tash Kahn, Camden Wards, 2018, Polaroid Photographs
John Ros, Camden Wards, 2018, Graphite
4. West Hampstead
Top: The place where The Beatles were turned down by Decca and where David Bowie recorded his first single.
Bottom: The alleyway named after rock and roll star Billy Fury who recorded songs in the same studios.
5. Fortune Green
West End Branch Library stood on this site until 1940 when it was destroyed by a bomb.
6. Kilburn
A window of Kilburn Welfare Association.
7. Swiss Cottage
The original chalet-style Swiss Tavern was a coaching inn built in 1804 at the junction of two newly-constructed roads – Finchley Road and Avenue Road.
8. Highgate
Two sculptures on top of a house on South Grove.
9. Gospel Oak
Top: A toyshop on Mansfield Road.
Bottom: When the area was still rural, parishioners gathered to hear gospel readings under an oak tree near this site.
10. Haverstock
A group of Dominican Friars came to the area in 1861 and opened St. Domenic's Priory in 1867.

Citizen

11. Hampstead Town
During WW2 Belsize Park air-raid shelter was equipped with 4380 bunks, each assigned to a named person.
12. Belsize
A satsuma on Belsize Avenue, once the grand carriageway of Belsize House, which gained notoriety in the early 18th century for the wild parties held there.
13. Froggnal and Fitzjohns
A statue of psychologist Sigmund Freud who lived around the corner.
14. St. Pancras and Somerstown
Top: The gravestones around the Hardy Tree in the grounds of St. Pancras Old Church were put there by Thomas Hardy who came up with the solution of placing them in a circular pattern after the bodies were exhumed for the construction of a new railway.
Bottom: The grave of women's rights advocator Mary Wollstonecraft in the same graveyard.
15. Regent's Park
This Cumbrian red sandstone bench outside Euston station is one of four 'Time Benches' that span different geological time zones.
16. King's Cross
This sculpture of a lost mitten by Tracey Emin sits outside the Foundling Hospital.
17. Bloomsbury
Top: My friend's mosaic on a hotel doorstep on Tavistock Place.
Bottom: This metal token is one of several embedded into the pavement on Marchmont Street as part of the 'Token Project', an artwork that shows replicas of the charms that mothers left with their children when leaving them in the care of the nearby Foundling Hospital.
18. Holborn and Covent Garden
A wall of St. Giles-in-the-Fields Church. In the 15th century condemned criminals on their way to the gallows were offered one last drink of ale - 'St. Giles Bowl' - at the church gate.
19. Kentish Town
Top: The place where The Kinks filmed 'Dead End Street'.
Bottom: The house where I misspent much of my youth.
20. Cantelowes
The skate park.
21. Camden Town and Primrose Hill
The lost Fleet River runs under this grate in Lyme Street in Camden.
22. John Ros, UK Cutout, 2018, Laser print
23. John Ros, London Cutout, 2018, Laser print
24. Tash Kahn, Camden Sounds, 2018, Digital audio recording
25. John Ros, Citizen, 2018, .pdf, View/download: tinyurl.com/CAMDENcitizen